To the Electoral Distribution Commissioners

Recently I met with the Shire of Northam's chief executive officer Bruce Mead to discuss the potential renaming of the State electoral district of Avon.

Mr Mead raised concerns regarding the proposal to rename the Avon region that consists of several towns including Northam, York and Beverly, to Merredin.

Mr Mead feels, and I tend to agree with him, that to name an entire district after one town would be of no benefit to the region. With many iconic tourist towns existing within the boundaries surely a more generic name would be more suitable.

I wish to offer my full support to the proposed names put forward by the Shire of Northam. In order of preference these include the names of Avon-Mortlock, Mortlock-Avon, Avon, Mortlock or Central Wheatbelt.

A name that reflects the boundaries varying agriculture, industry and attractions could only benefit all those living within its confines.

Yours Sincerely
