Good morning

I write to express my concern at the proposal to take away another seat from regional Western Australia with the amalgamation of the seats of Moore and NW Central and the addition of a seat in Perth. Western Australians often experience National policy being Canberra-centric, or at least east coast-centric. One would think that would make Western Australian policymakers conscious of considering all of its citizens and not just the ones that live in cities. It is regional Western Australia that largely feeds us and pays our bills and it is very disappointing that our voice is being increasingly ignored and silenced. Regional Western Australians have had one blow after another in the last year or so and I really hope that this one can be avoided.

Kind regards

JULIE SAWYER
