Hello

I have been out to the state, only returning this afternoon and being told of the upcoming change to electoral boundaries.

I would very much like to lodge my displeasure at this news. Country people are once again being penalized; following changes to the Upper House, where it is now harder for Country people to have representatives. I realise that the areas are large and the population is not as great at the city electorates, but that means it is even more important for the country electorates to remain unchanged, This is our "food bowl" and thus must be protected by adequate representation in the Parliament and not a diminished number.

yours sincerely
