Hi,

I am writing to express my concern with Labors proposed change to create the Midwest electorate which would further reduce representation for the regions in parliament.

I am currently in the Moore electorate and feel combining us into a midwest electorate will not benefit anyone who lives within the proposed region. There is quite a difference in land uses and demographics that combining will not help. Muchea and surrounds are very different to coral bay kumarina and sandstone.

The electoral borders continually reduce regional representation in parliament and will never result in anything good. Basing the reviews purely on populace centers who do not know what regional WA needs is foolhardy.

Regards

Greg Dixon
